Grahame Gardner launch the big one!

This month sees the release of Grahame Gardner's most extensive workwear collection to date within our stunning new 200-page brochure. Introducing new lines in nursing, dental & veterinary wear, corporatewear, catering and professional leisurewear the new brochure is sure to give inspiration to anyone looking for a new image for the workplace.

James Greenlees, Managing Director comments:- "This new brochure represents the hard work the entire team have put into enhancing our range over the past two years."

Our flexibility enables us to offer several options for enhancing garments to create a corporate identity for any organisation, regardless of size.

Grahame Gardner Cook up a new range

Those working in kitchens and bars can now take advantage of our extended range of workwear. This fresh range includes a wide variety of new stock items, encompassing traditional hospitality garments alongside contemporary styles, prints and fabrics.

Simon Ward, Sales Director at Grahame Gardner comments: - "We are delighted to be able to offer such a varied collection of great looking garments to the hospitality industry".

The new collection uses technically advanced fabrics to give hospitality staff added benefits. Microfibre, used throughout the collection is exceptionally easy to care for and very comfortable to wear. Permagard has also been used in a number of key garments within the collection, providing antibacterial protection for the wearer.

Canterbury College use Vitality to sharpen identity

Canterbury College have sharpened their image as a result of using Vitality Designerwear Collection and Grahame Gardner's dedicated college service.

Ruth Anne May, Section Manager for Beauty & Holistic Therapies comments:-
"Our students have historically been required to wear white tunics and trousers which often look scruffy from the dirt en route to college. Marc from Grahame Gardner took on board our concerns and suggested a combination of brown and duck egg blue."

Grahame Gardner Area Manager for the South East Marc Edwards worked closely with Canterbury College providing samples and carrying out measuring services for students.

Grahame Gardner gear up for Doctors orders!

In response to the new measure unveiled by the Health Secretary we have drafted a new design for the Doctor's Coat. This new coat has short sleeves and is to be worn over a short sleeve shirt, it has been introduced to eradicate a potential build up of bacteria in the cuff area of the old style coat. This new directive has been launched as part of the ongoing battle against the spread of hospital-acquired infections (HAI's) such as MRSA and Clostridium difficile.

Simon Ward, Sales Director Comments: - "We are delighted to be able to offer this new style coat which sends out the same message of professionalism but will not be viewed as a compromise to hygiene".

Can we also recommend the coat in 'Permagard' our Antibacterial fabric, which offers further protection against HAI's.
